[Footage of financial advisors attending recognition events held in various conference spaces with event staging, lighting and screens. Barry Simmons speaks to the audience from the stage.]

>> Barry Simmons (Head of National Sales, Wells Fargo Advisors): Our job is simple. It is to help you all grow. What makes you so special? You're fast learners. You take the resources available to you and you put them to work. This business wouldn't be possible without you. This business is built by advisors for advisors and everything that you do for your clients each and every day is a true reflection of the power of this firm. And we appreciate you.

Nothing better. There's nothing better than that.
